

Declaration Concerning Compliance With Directive 2011/65/EU - RoHS

Directive 2002/95/EC RoHS (Restriction of Hazardous Substances) and the related directive 2002/96/EC WEEE (Waste, Electric and Electronic Equipment) effective as of 1.7.2006 obliges European Union member states to ensure that new electrical and electronic equipment placed on the market does not contain designated harmful substances such as lead, mercury, cadmium, hexavalent chromium, polybrominated biphenyls (PBB), polybrominated diphenyl ether (PBDE), etc.

The aim of this Directive is to harmonize the legislation restricting the use of hazardous materials in all European Union member states and also to protect public health and the environment using an electrical equipment recycling station system and the separate collection of electrical waste.

In 2011 the Directive of the European Parliament and the Council was revised and replaced by the new Directive RoHS No. 2011/65/EU. The purpose of this Directive is to limit the quantity of hazardous substances in electrical waste and to increase the reuse of components and the recycling of materials. The requirements of this Directive are incorporated into Government Regulation No. 481/2012 Coll., on restriction of the use of certain hazardous substances in electrical and electronic equipment.

CODACO ELECTRONIC s.r.o. is affected by the above directive particularly as regards its use of lead in its production process, as well as in the components themselves.

CODACO ELECTRONIC s.r.o. uses manufacturing technology for lead-free soldering and purchases the goods it needs for production from world renowned manufacturers that supply their products in accordance with the applicable EU RoHS directives.

We declare that all the products we supply meet the requirements of the RoHS Directives and are also marketed in compliance with those directives.

Lead-free products are marked with the logo.
